“Our new occupational health program — supported in part by the grant from CCHF — works to solve physicians’ problematic workplace behaviors that can negatively impact quality of care, patient safety, and satisfaction. We are grateful for this generous and mission-critical contribution.”

— Steven A. Adelman, MD, director of Physician Health Services, Inc.

“HAVEN is seeing the devastating consequences of stress, burnout, and loss of emotional resilience in Connecticut health professionals. CCHF’s support gives hope to the professionals we work with, demonstrates respect for individual providers, and is an investment in the Connecticut medical community that is deeply appreciated.”

— Maureen Sullivan Dinnan, JD, executive director, HAVEN

“CCHF’s support has helped us heighten our ability to provide confidential monitoring, screening, and advocacy for medical students, physicians, and healthcare providers who may be suffering from addiction or mental health issues.”

— Marjorie Lamberson, CFRE, director of philanthropy and member engagement for the Foundation of the Pennsylvania Medical Society

“Washington Physicians Health Program supports the ongoing recovery of over 300 doctors per year—helping them to regain their health and practice safely. This work would not be possible without the support of the CCHF and others.”

— Sheldon Cooper, Executive Director, Washington Physicians Health Program

“In recent years, it has become more evident that support for physician health is needed across the country. CCHF is proud to contribute to organizations that are helping thousands of medical providers overcome problems involving physical and mental health, alcoholism, addiction, and more. The connection between supporting medical providers’ well-being and improving quality of patient care is significant and something that CCHF feels very strongly about.”
